NEW AIR MAIL STATION
LOCATED NEARBY ZION90 Acre Tract Taken From 4 Farms Leased 10 Years.

TO ERECT BIG HANGAR

The new Bellefonte air mail station will be located nearby Zion, about three miles distant from Bellefonte, on what is known as the back road between Zion and Pleasant Gap. Leases for approximately 90 acres, made up of parts of four farms, were signed in Bellefonte last week and forwarded to Washington for approval. The leases cover a period of 10 years, and provide for the government to take possession of the lands on Monday, last.

The 90 acre tract is made up of 30 acres of the G. P. Gentzel farm, about 28 acres of the W. C. Smeltzer farm, about 10 acres of the Harry Garbrick farm, and approximately 22 acres of the Mrs. George Garbrick farm. The tract lies along the north side of the public road and is rectangular in shape, being upward of 175 rods long and 85 or 90 rods wide. Of the 90 acres 50 are in grass and 40 in wheat. Under the terms of the leases the land owners will harvest the wheat and salvage such grass as is possible.

It is the intention of the government to erect a large hangar, 101x80 feet, of concrete brick or concrete block construction. Several Bellefonte dealers have been awarded sub-contracts for plumbing, lighting, supplies, etc. The hangar will be built by the Spalding Construction Co., of New York. Contracts to local dealers call for completion of their part two weeks following the date to be designated for beginning work.

The hangar will be much more attractive than is the type built on temporary locations. Along the front of the hangar will be business offices, garage, etc. The space for airplanes is directly back, with entrances at either end. The large doors at these entrances will slide up and down.

An oil heating system will be installed, and the hangar will be electrically lighted. Current will be supplied by the Keystone Power Corporation. A power line will have to be extended down the valley, from the Bellefonte trunk system, for that purpose. A deep well will be sunk for supplying water. The water will be pumped with electrical equipment.

Just what disposition will be made of the present hangar at the Beaver field has not been definitely decided. It may be sold to the State Highway Department and used as an auxiliary repair and storage plant.

In connection with the making known of the location of the new station and building plans, it is stated that the present force of men employed at the local air mail field will not only be retained but that several additional mechanics will be taken on. The Bellefonte station will not be used for construction or rebuilding of airplanes, as in the past, such work being centralized at Chicago.

The new and larger station for Bellefonte is classed as one of the most important links in the proposed day and night airmail service between New York and San Francisco. What are known as sub-stations for lighting purposes, chiefly, will be located at various points on the entire route. One of these will be located on a 16-acre tract at Snow Shoe, leased from H. P. Kelley. This field is several miles off the flying route, but is said to be the most available that could be secured.

Beacon lights, having one-half billion candle power, will be established at these various substations. In addition to such a light at the Snow Shoe field, one will be located on the chain of mountains between Zion and Loganton, and another at the Woodward narrows. It is said that the light from one of these beacons carries 50 miles, and it is so powerful that with it one may read a newspaper one mile distant. The station near Zion will be equipped with both beacon and what are known as flood lights. The beacon light operates much as the same as the commonly known search light, while flood lights diffuse the light over a broader surface.

The Bellefonte station crew of mechanics will be used in erecting a number of the sub-stations westward from Snow Shoe.

The belief prevails that it will be only a question of a short time until a modern state highway will be built from Pleasant Gap to Zion, passing the new aviation field. The federal government, it is said, will co-operate in the matter. The pres-

SPECIAL COURT

Number of Pleas of Guilty Entered
Before Judge Dale

At a special session of Court last Thursday morning, a number of pleas of guilty were entered before Judge Arthur C. Dale, who disposed of them as follows:

Chester Rice and Clarence Hor, pleading guilty of burglary, having robbed the Potter-Hoy hardware store and the Ginery grocery store of merchandise to the value of $300, were sent to Huntingdon reformatory for an indeterminate period. Of the three other boys under 16 years of age, who took part in the same robberies, one was paroled at a session of juvenile court in the custody of the juvenile court officer, Rev. Reed O. Stealy, and two others, Rodger Bell and Walter Lucas were sent to Glenn Mills.

Joseph Firment, of Morrisdale, pleaded guilty to possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor and was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than 6 months nor more than a year. Firment's car, a new Dodge sedan, was ordered sold, the proceeds to be turned over, pro rata, to persons having a legal claim against same, and balance to go to the County.

Thomas Smeal, of Philipsburg, was brought before the Court to answer to an old charge for statutory offense. Having just completed a year's imprisonment for a somewhat similar charge, sentence was suspended for 5 years.

Wincenty Betrizum, of Spike Island, Philipsburg, pleaded guilty to a violation of the liquor laws. Betrizum stated that although the officers found a complete still in his house, it was not his. He said his wife purchased the outfit to make liquor for her own use. He further stated that Mrs. Betrizum is sick in bed just now but that she would come over and explain it all to the judge as soon as she was able. The Court sentenced him to pay a fine of $100 and from 3 to 6 months in jail. Great surprise was evinced by the prisoner who exclaimed, "Who, me, Judge?" For the prisoner, who is a foreigner, it should be stated that many of the spectators believed he told a truthful story. His wife has 6 children, the youngest 2 weeks old, and no one to care for them. He is a coal miner and has not had steady work for 2 years. His eyes filled with tears as he started to jail.

The last case was that of Jesse Dunlap, charged with violating the liquor laws, Dunlap having been found in charge when State Police raided the Moose Club. There were three charges: selling, manufacturing and possessing. Sentence was suspended on the first two charges and a fine of $100 and costs imposed on the third count.

Annual Logan Banquet

The annual banquet of the Logan Hose Co. was held at their building last Thursday evening, and as usual was a grand success. Roast chicken and oyster stew were the main things of the menu, although other items too numerous to mention were served in abundance. Levi Miller, the first fire chief of the Logan Hose Co. and one of its charter members, was the first speaker and his reminiscences of the early attempts at fire fighting in Bellefonte were extremely interesting to the younger members, more than a hundred of whom were present. Other speakers of the evening included Col. H. S. Taylor, W. Harrison Walker, Chief John J. Bower, Dr. Melvin Locke, Prothonotary Roy Wilkinson, and H. P. Harris.

Coleville Store Robbed.

The general store of John Sweltzer, at Coleville, was broken into and robbed of a quantity of merchandise on last Saturday evening. The robbers smashed a window in the front of the building and carried away a large quantity of candy and other merchandise. The proprietor has not been able to make an accurate check of the goods stolen, but thinks that the approximate loss will be upward of $100.

Start Work on Hospital.

The Building Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Centre County Hospital at a meeting held on Monday evening, announced that the new extension to the hospital will be constructed under the supervision of Benjamin Bradley. Materials are now being contracted for and the work will begin immediately.

ent road, will be subjected to considerable additional heavy traffic while the new hangar is being built. Crushed limestone for the cement work will be trucked from the Whiterock quarries at Pleasant Gap. Cement and other building supplies will be trucked from Bellefonte.

Timely Pointers For Income Tax Payers.

Income taxpayers will find, when they start making up their return sheets for 1924, that quite a number of changes have been made in the law, and that some of these are more or less confusing. Because we appreciate that the information will prove helpful to a great many of our readers, 'The Republican' deems it timely to publish the following explanation of the new law, prepared by the Collector of Internal Revenue:

As in former acts, a single man's exemption is $1,000. Married persons (living with husband or wife) and heads of families are allowed $2,500 exemption without regard to the amount of the net income. The prior act reduced the $2,500 exemption to $2,000 when the income was over $5,000. Up to 1924 all married persons filed returns when their net income was $2,000 or more. For the present filing period all married persons with incomes less than $2,500, or gross income not more than $5,000 need not file. Even though a head of family is entitled to a $2,500 exemption, he must file when his income is $1,000 or more, as the act expressly states that all single persons must file when their income is $1,000 or more.

There is a wide difference in the application of the credit of $400 for dependents and the $2,500 exemption for head of a family.

A person is, for income tax purposes the head of a family and has a personal exemption of $2,500 when he actually supports in one household, pursuant to some legal or moral obligation, one or more persons over whom he exercises family control and who are related to him by blood, marriage or adoption.

The credit of $400 is allowed where a taxpayer is the "chief support" of a person under the age of 18 incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. The $400 credit applies on the basis of "chief support" whereas, the $2,500 exemption is based on the taxpayer furnishing the "entire support." To receive the $400 credit the dependent one need not be related and need not live with the taxpayer. For head of a family, the dependent one must be related either by blood, marriage or adoption and must live in the same household with the taxpayer unless through force of circumstances it is not possible to live together.

Any single man may receive the credit of $400 or exemption of $2,500, or both, but must fit a certain description. His net income is $1,000 or more.

The method of determining exemptions has been radically changed. Heretofore, an exemption was determined according to the married or single status of the taxpayer as of the last day of his taxable period. Formerly, if a man married during the year, he was given a full married man's exemption. If his wife died during the year and there were no children, he was allowed only a single man's exemption. As an illustration, if a man married as of Dec. 30 he was given a full married man's exemption. The new act has seen fit to correct this to allow for months single and the months married. Fractional parts of a month are disregarded, more than half a month being considered a full month.

The credit of $400 for dependents is based on the dependent being alive as of the last day of the taxable year, this being the feature that regulated its use in prior acts. For instance, a married man with one dependent would be allowed $2,500 for being married and living with his wife, plus the $400 for the dependent, making a total of $2,900, but should the dependent die prior to the end of the taxable period or Dec. 31, if the return is filed on a calendar year basis, he would be allowed only $2,500. In other words, the credit of $400 is not prorated. The exemptions of $1,000 and $2,000 may be prorated, as heretofore explained.

The following case is considered: A and B marry as of June 30, 1924. They were single six months. Each is entitled to an exemption of six twelfths of $1,000 for the six months single plus six twelfths of the $2,500 for the months they were married, making a total of $2,250. The married portion of the exemption is allowed between them, but each has the single portion. While the law states that returns are due from married couples where the net income is $2,500 this does not apply to couples married for a portion of the year. In this case a return would be due if the income is more than $2,250. The $2,550 is added to couples married for a full twelve months.

Man's wife died June 30, 1924. His exemption would be six twelfths of $2,500 a total of $1,750. He would have to file a return if he made $1,000 or more as he is a single man for the purpose of the law.

Should Protect Hunting and Fishing License Funds.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania owes it to the sportsmen of the State to protect the funds received from hunting and fishing licenses. To do otherwise would be to repudiate definite promises to the sportsmen when such licenses were created. Moreover, it would seriously endanger future development and efficiency of the game and fish departments.

The hunting and fishing licenses were created for the distinct purpose of providing money to run the game and fish departments. It was specifically provided that such funds be used for no other purposes. The sportsmen were promised this. Accepting that promise in good faith, they did much to overcome opposition to the proposed license system. Prior to that time the game and fish departments had to worry along as best they could on miserably small appropriations by the Legislature. Now that the funds from such licenses amount to a comfortable sum, the Legislature would order the money turned into the general fund, to be used for all purposes—principally other purposes. The proposal should be voted down.

The game department is one of the few permitted to retain identity by Governor Pinchot when his Code was adopted by the Legislature two years ago. He seriously crippled the importance of the fish department by burying it in another and larger department. If the fish department is now to be robbed of its funds secured from fishing licenses, and made dependent upon the Legislature, its importance, and therefore its usefulness, will be further weakened. It is to be hoped that in another two years, with a new administration in charge at Harrisburg, the fish department will be restored to its rightful position.

Members of the Legislature will do well to heed the warning to keep hands off the hunting and fishing license funds. That money is paid in by sportsmen, and no others, and they have the right to say how it shall be used.

SERVICE INTERRUPTION

Local Electric Power Off for Long Period Last Friday.

The electric service of the Keystone Power Corporation was interrupted last Friday for about seven hours, due to a break in the Penn Central Light and Power Company's transmission line.

A woodsman, cutting trees near the right-of-way, felled a tree which struck the high voltage line, tearing down all the wires. Due to the bad condition of the roads leading into this section, an incorrect report was given to the local company as to the time that would be required to repair the break.

Several repair crews were sent out by the Penn Central Power and Light Company, as well as one from the Keystone Company, as soon as the true source of the interruption was determined.

The tree not only tore down the power lines, but the private telephone line as well, so that it was noon before word was received that the break could not be repaired until late in the afternoon. Immediate steps were taken to put the Milesburg station into operation. By one o'clock a portion of the local lighting load was put on this plant, but before the larger generators could be started the break was repaired and general service was resumed at three o'clock.

This has been the longest interruption of its kind experienced by the local power company for a number of years. In order that interruptions of this kind will be eliminated in the future, steps are now being made by the local office of the Keystone Power Corporation to put the Milesburg Station into service as quickly as possible, in case of future interruptions.

COLORED MAN A SUICIDE

Herbert Kreitz, Fearing He Murdered Uncle, Kills Himself.

Thinking that he had murdered his uncle, Walter Delige, by a blow on the head with a stove shaker, Herbert Kreitz, colored, of Bellefonte, committed suicide last Friday afternoon, shooting himself five times through the breast with a .38 calibre revolver. He had been considered rather weak minded for some time past.

According to the testimony offered at the inquest Saturday morning Kreitz had entered into an altercation with his aunt, Mrs. Thomas Johnson. Walter Delige, who also makes his home with the Johnsons, attempted to settle the argument. Kreitz picked up a stove shaker and struck Delige on the head, inflicting a large scalp wound. He then ran from the house, apparently believing he had murdered Delige. Shortly after 1 o'clock he appeared at the home of Foster Fanning, nearby Roopsburg, and requested the loan of a gun to shoot a skunk, which he had seen along the road. Mrs. Paul Fanning, to whom he made the request, loaned him a .38 calibre Smith & Wesson revolver, the property of her husband, and gave him a handful of cartridges. The next person to see him was Christ Beezer, who lives about a quarter of a mile further up Spring Creek. He stated that Kreitz came running along the road, pausing long enough to borrow several matches. He then started on up Spring creek. He was next seen in the vicinity of a bungalow about a mile beyond, near the Beezer ice pond, by Al. Hartle, a farmer, residing near that place. He said Kreitz was running along the road, occasionally looking back over his shoulder. Mr. Hartle immediately called the penitentiary, thinking Kreitz might be an escaped convict. After he had done this, he came from the house, just in time to see Kreitz run around the corner of the bungalow and fall on his face at the edge of the ice pond. He went near enough to see that the man was apparently dead, and then notified Sheriff Taylor. Upon the latter's arrival a short time afterward, he discovered the body lying face downward in a pool of blood, the revolver which he had borrowed from the Fannings clutched in his right hand.

A coroner's jury empaneled on the spot, and composed of Homer Barnes, Paul McGarvey, James Rine, Dan Bernhard, Ralph Smith and Herbert Beezer, rendered a verdict of death by suicide.

Kreitz was about 35 years old, a veteran of the World war, and is survived by one brother, Lewis, of Altoona.

Bridge Collapsed Under Truck.

The old Pine St. bridge over the Moschannon, connecting Philipsburg and Chester Hill boroughs, collapsed last Tuesday afternoon under the weight of a delivery truck. The structure had been much weakened by the battering of ice floating down the creek following the recent thaw. The rear end of the truck rested at the bottom of the V formed by the collapsed centre span, while the front end pointed skyward at a sharp angle. The driver, Alfred Wood, was not injured and the truck, the property of Booth & Shontz, soft drink manufacturers, was pulled from the bridge without damage. This is the bridge which created such a furore in that locality recently when a joint board of viewers representing Centre and Clearfield counties refused to replace it with a new one.

Broke Leg at Quarry.

George Owens, of Pleasant Gap, employed at the Chemical Lime company plant, fell in front of a car of stone on Wednesday afternoon and badly injured his leg. Mr. Owens was riding on the front end of the car, which was being pushed to the dump, when the wheels jumped a switch and he was jolted off, falling in front of the car. The bumper on the car struck his leg, but due to the swelling it could not be learned until an X ray picture had been taken, whether or not the member was broken.

Two Arrested at Dance.

Two students of the Bellefonte Academy were arrested by State Police outside of the Bellefonte armory on Friday evening, charged with disorderly conduct and lodged in the county jail for the night. They were given a hearing before Squire Kline Woodring on Saturday morning and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Thief Caught by Dukemann.

Keler Snyder, wanted in Williamsport for burglarizing a garage at that place, was arrested in Bellefonte on Monday evening by Chief Dukeman, and lodged in the county jail. County Detective Coleman, of Williamsport, arrived the next morning and removed the man to that place for trial.

JOHN PETRIKIN HARRIS

SUMMONED BY DEATH

Was Veteran Among Bankers and Highly Respected Citizen.

HAD HOST OF FRIENDS

John Petrikin Harris one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Bellefonte, passed away quietly at his home in Petrikin Hill, last Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock. He had been in rather feeble health for some weeks. His death marked the passing away of one of the old-time, familiar figures in the life of Bellefonte.

Deceased was born in Bellefonte, Aug. 5, 1832, a son of Samuel and Nancy Petrikin Harris, and spent his entire life in this community. He was united in marriage in 1860 to Mary Rachael Scott, who preceded him to the grave some years ago. He is survived by the following children: J. Linn, of Lock Haven; Dr. Elmer H. Schadt, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Emily H. Warfield, of Bellefonte; John P. Jr., of Newton Hamilton; and Dr. Edward H. of Snow Shoe. He is also survived by 10 grand children and 5 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Harris was well known in banking and educational circles throughout the State. He held the State record for continuous service as a school director, having served in that capacity in Bellefonte for 35 years. He was also the oldest active banker in the State at the time of his retirement, having been connected with the First National Bank and the Bellefonte Trust Co. for 65 years.

The Masonic ritual was observed at the Union cemetery where interment was made after a brief service in the Presbyterian chapel on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Thompson, assisted by Rev. Schmidt officiated.

Six former contemporaries in the banking business acted as honorary pall bearers: John R. Fryberger, of the First National Bank of Philipsburg; Frank Lakenbach, of the Blair County National Bank, of Tyrone; John D. Meyer, of the First National Bank, of Tyrone; S. Ward Gramley, of the Millheim National Bank; Charles M. McCurdy, of the First National of Bellefonte; and Nelson E. Robb, of the Bellefonte Trust Company. Six past commanders of the Constance Commandery also were honorary pall-bearers: J. L. Spangler, W. I. Fleming, Dr. J. L. Seibert, A. C. Mingle, Harry Keller and George T. Bush. Grand sons of the deceased were the active pall bearers.

ANNUAL AUTO SHOW

45 Models of 30 Makes of Cars
Will Be Exhibited.

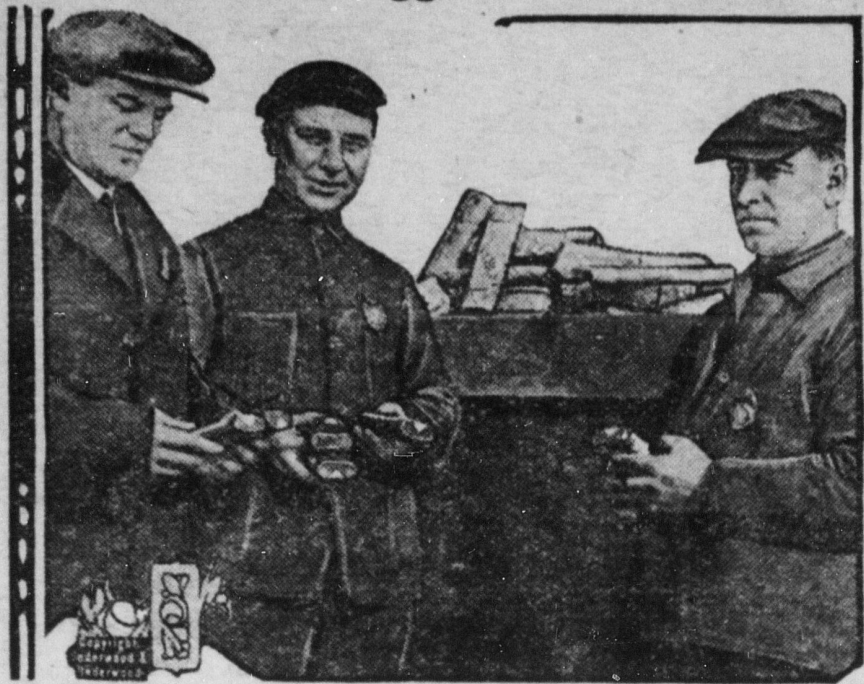

The annual automobile show, to be held by the Centre County Auto Dealers Association in the Bellefonte armory, March 4, 5, 6 and 7, will be bigger and better than ever this year, according to its sponsors. Forty-five models of 30 different makes of cars will be on exhibition. All of the latest things in the auto line, including 4-wheel brakes, balloon tires, convertible tops, sport models, roadsters, touring cars and closed cars will be there, offering a good opportunity for the prospective purchaser to compare values.

Even if one does not contemplate purchasing a car this season, the entertainment alone is well worth the nominal admission charge. Geiss, the Radio King, of Johnstown, will be featured on Wednesday and Friday evenings, and the Hon. Clyde Hare and John R. Helm, of Williamsport, will be the principal entertainers on Thursday evening. In addition to these and other entertainers, good orchestras will enliven things at both afternoon and evening sessions.

The dealers, who will have exhibits at the show, are as follows: Geo. A. Beezer, Bellefonte, Studebaker; C. R. Snyder, State College, Dodge; Beatty Motor Co., Bellefonte, Ford and Lincoln; Deltrich & Dunlap Cadillac Co., Bellefonte, Buick and Cadillac; Willis R. Wion, Bellefonte, Nash and Lafayette; S. H. Poorman, Bellefonte, Chandler and Cleveland; George C. Harper, State College, Oldsmobile; Big Spring Motor Co., Bellefonte, Rickenbacker and Oldsmobile; Penn State Auto Co., State College, Jordan, Flint, Willys-Knight and Overland; Krader Motor Co., Bellefonte, Maxwell and Chrysler; J. D. Musser, State College, Chandler and Cleveland; Hagan Motor Co., Bellefonte, Jewett; William B. Bell, State Franklin; Jodon & Sommers Gap, Oakland; Bellefonte H. Co., Bellefonte, Hudson Decker Brothers, Bellefonte.

Forty Millions Asked for Forests

New Bill Sets Forth Program for Ten Years.

Washington.—A ten-year program under which $40,000,000 would be authorized for the purchase of national forest lands in the eastern half of the United States is contained in a bill just introduced by Senator Charles L. McNary (Rep., Ore.), as S. 3736, and by Congressman Roy O. Woodruff (Rep., Mich.), as H. R. 11034. According to the American Forestry association which is sponsoring the bill the fiscal program outlined is the next essential step in forestry legislation. It would make possible the completion of forest land purchases in the White and Appalachian mountains authorized by the Weeks law of 1911 and the acquiring of 2,500,000 acres in the southern pine regions and a similar area in the lake states. The purchases in the lake states and in the South are made possible by the Clarke-McNary law, passed in June, 1924, which authorizes the acquiring of land for the purpose of timber production on the watersheds of navigable streams, as well as for protection of stream flow. Much of the land may be secured at prices consistent with the government policy of national forest purchases.

Purchase of Forests.

Officials of the American Forestry association point out that 8,000,000 acres additional should be purchased in the White and Appalachian mountains in order to extend and consolidate present government holdings in practicable administrative units and to complete the group of national forests planned under the Weeks law. During the past 13 years only a little over 2,500,000 acres have been purchased. The little lands available for national forest purposes in the South are especially suited to the production of timber. A similar condition exists in the lake states. This region has contributed most of the timber for the development of the great agricultural belt of the Middle West, and it is stated by friends of the new bill that this region, under wise management, can be made to do its part in forest restoration. A system of national forests encircling the larger centers of population and utilizing areas adapted only for the production of timber should be effective as demonstrations in the practice of forestry. This would result eventually in putting under forest management through private ownership a much larger acreage than that purchased by the government. Furthermore, this group of forests could be made to furnish recreation spaces for three-fourths of the nation's population, besides producing timber and pulpwood and protecting stream flow.

Cigarettes and Forest Fires.

The increasing use of cigarettes and the increasing number of forest fires chargeable to the cigarette butt should suggest to the manufacturer of "fags" a responsibility on their part to keep before their customers the public menace attached to carelessness in the use of their products. According to figures issued by the United States Treasury department, the total number of cigarettes consumed annually in the country is now approaching the astounding figure of 24,000,000,000. In the last two years the consumption of cigarettes in the United States increased 50 per cent. This year the manufacturers are said to be turning them out at the rate of three a day for each man and woman in the country over twenty-one years of age.

Eighty per cent of the forest fires in the United States are man-caused. During the last season smokers were responsible for 40 per cent of man-caused fires in the woods.

WATCH BACK AFTER STRANGE TRAVELS

Maryland Man's Lost Timepiece Is Returned.

Baltimore.—Wade G. Bounds of Allen, Md., looked at his watch just before retiring at 11:30 p. m., last December 23, at Chestertown, Md. He did not see it again for more than a month and then only when he identified it for a stranger who had been trying to find its owner.

Meanwhile the watch had traveled far, although the only point it is positively known to have reached is Three Oaks, Mich. It came back to its owner from the Michigan city.

Some 15 or 20 days ago Mrs. Charlotte Frank of Baltimore received from a drygoods firm in Three Oaks a parcel post package containing a donation for a lodge to which she belongs. On opening the bundle she discovered in addition to the expected goods, a smaller package containing a watch on the chain of which was suspended a key and as a charm a miniature gold baseball engraved "W. G. B." with the inscription "Washington, L. F., Captain, 1922."

No left fielder of the Washington American league club possessed any such initials as inquiry showed. Further search for an owner led to the discovery that W. G. Bounds had been captain and left fielder on the baseball nine at Washington college, Chestertown, Md., that year. When he was located in Baltimore he was able to give a convincing description of the watch and establish his title to it.

Mrs. Frank wrote to the Three Oaks drygoods company from whom she received the parcel and had a reply saying that no one there knows anything about the watch. Bounds says he forgot about putting it under the pillow until the night after he did so when he had gone away from Chestertown and on writing a friend there he was informed it could not be found.

Winter Sports Health Builders

Parents Urged to Turn Children Loose in Snow.

Albany, N. Y.—The advantages for children of outdoor play in winter were discussed by Dr. H. L. K. Shaw, consulting pediatrician of the state department of health, in a talk broadcast recently from Station WGY at Schenectady. Doctor Shaw believes that children need to get outdoors in winter even more than in summer owing to the fact that they spend so much time in crowded schoolrooms and overheated homes.

"There was a widespread belief not so many years ago," said Dr. Shaw, "that cold air and night air were injurious to health and were to be avoided. Many people used to follow the example of the bear and the woodchuck, who crawl into their holes and sleep all winter without fresh air.

This was bad enough for the adults, but, worse still, it sets a bad example to their children.

"The change of popular opinion in regard to fresh air and ventilation came when it was found that fresh air, which in the northern states during winter is often cold air, is the best and surest cure for tuberculosis. Now this fresh air sentiment has extended beyond the needs of the consumptive to the homes and to the schools. School authorities recognize the need for fresh air, but unfortunately on account of lack of space in the city schools only a relatively few children are afforded the advantages of open air classes. These are generally restricted to children who are undernourished, debilitated or diseased. It has been definitely proved that children who attend these open-air classes or who study in well-ventilated schoolrooms are better scholars, more alert and show better powers of concentration.

"You should urge your child by example and precept to love the open in the winter. Outdoors in winter offers just as much fun as in summer and is just as comfortable for the child, provided he is dressed for the part. To the cold weather it is not necessary to be overclothed and overburdened with outside coverings. Do not dress your child as though he were going to the Arctic regions in search of the North pole. Comfortable mittens for the hands, ears protected and feet kept warm and dry are the essential points for winter outdoor dress. Exercise, whether playing, running or walking, keeps the body warm and brings a healthy glow to the skin. Rain or snow will not harm your child, provided he is properly dressed and protected. There is a real exhilaration in walking in a rainstorm; the raindrops striking the face are a wonderful tonic for the complexion. Walking briskly in the winter is excellent exercise, but it is not popular with the ordinary school child; it is too much like work and he sees no fun in it. Do not let your child be a 'sit-by-the-fire'."

Many Japs in Hawaii

Honolulu.—A total of 1,265 American citizens of Japanese ancestry registered as voters in the territorial election in the last fiscal year, according to Gov. Farrington's report to Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work. The number of American citizens of Chinese ancestry who registered was 1,840.

Of the Japanese population of 125,598 in the territory, 66,647 were born in the islands, and are, therefore, American citizens, Governor Farrington said.

Asquith Made Earl of Oxford by King

What is likely to be generally regarded as the end of a great political career comes with the announcement that Herbert H. Asquith, has accepted the honor of an earldom, offered by King George on the advice of Prime Minister Baldwin, "in recognition of his great services to the nation," and had chosen the historic title of earl of Oxford, famous in the country's annals.

The earldom of Oxford, vested in the famous De Vere family, flourished from 1142 to the death of Aubrey De Vere, the twentieth earl, in 1703, when it became extinct, but was revived in 1711 in the person of Robert Harley, who was speaker of the house of commons and held other high government positions, again to become extinct with the death of the sixth earl in 1853. Mrs. Asquith—the famous "Margot" author of the diary—becomes the countess of Oxford, while Julian Asquith, their grandson, and son of Raymond Asquith, who was killed in the World war in 1916, becomes heir to the title. He will have the courtesy title of Viscount Asquith.

Mr. Asquith is seventy-three years old. His party suffered a disaster in the last general election and he himself failed to obtain a seat.

Dean Pound Not to Go to Wisconsin U.

Dr. Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard law school (portrait herewith), was elected president of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Edward A. Birge, who will complete 50 years of service next June, will become president emeritus. Doctor Pound was selected unanimously from a field which had been narrowed from 50 candidates to a group of four.

Doctor Pound was born in Lincoln, Neb., October 27, 1870. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1888 and from Harvard law school in 1897. He was admitted to the Nebraska bar in 1890 and practiced at Lincoln.

Doctor Pound retained membership in many national and international societies, including the Nebraska Academy of Sciences, the American Microscopical society, the Associe Libre de l'Academie Internationale de Geographie Botanique, American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the Botanical Society of America, American Bar association, Nebraska State Bar association, and the Association of American Law Schools, of which he was president in 1911.

At the last moment Dean Pound decided to decline the offer of the presidency. It was not that he loved the University of Wisconsin less but that he loved the law more.

Sanders to Be the President's Secretary

Do you remember Everett Sanders of Indiana, who had such a narrow escape from the nomination for vice president at the last Republican national convention? Well, he's going to be secretary to President Coolidge, taking the place of C. Bascom Sloop, resigned. And here's a new portrait of Everett Sanders.

He was born near Coalmont, Ind., in 1882. His father, Rev. James Sanders, worked his farm six days a week and preached in a little Baptist church on the seventh. Young Sanders worked his way through the Indiana State Normal school at Terre Haute and married a coed, Miss Ella Neal of Jacksonville, soon after their graduation. Both then entered Indiana university at Bloomington. By 1907 he was practicing law in Terre Haute. He got into politics, as every Indiana lawyer does and was elected to congress in 1916 and stayed there.

Last year he was not a candidate. They do say that Sanders wanted to be a federal judge and expected to be appointed. But they also say he is a New man and not a Watson man. Hence the disappointment. During the Presidential campaign Sanders was in charge of the national speakers' bureau.

It would be hard to find a more popular man than Sanders in Terre Haute. And Terre Haute expects him to turn out the best president's secretary ever. He will have a chance to prove his mettle, for Secretary Sloop has not only kept President Coolidge in fine shape but added eight pounds to his weight.

Gifford New Head of A. T. & T. Company

Walter Sherman Gifford, who was the other day elected president of the American Telegraph & Telephone company, was a clerk working for the Western Electric company 19 years ago for $10 a week, so the story goes. The A. T. & T. is the parent company of the Bell Telephone system. The Western Electric company makes the Bell telephones and its main plant at Hawthorne (Chicago) is a city in itself, with a working population of over 40,000. The A. T. & T. capitalization is probably second only to that of the United States Steel corporation. President Gifford is only forty and has been described as a "human dynamo." He is better known to the country as the organizer and later the director of the Council for National Defense. It was under his guidance that the nation's industrial resources were mobilized during the World war. The new president succeeds Henry B. Thayer, who becomes chairman of the board of directors. He was born at Salem, Mass., and is a Harvard man (1905). He is especially gifted in statistical methods and President Theodore N. Vall of A. T. & T. took him as chief statistician in 1908. He returned to the company after his World war work, became vice president in charge of finance and in 1923 was made executive vice president. His success, his friends say, rests on his genius for knowing and understanding facts.

THEY have learned from experience that no matter how many other treatments have been tried without success, Resinol Ointment is often the one that brings speedy relief from chafing, eczema or similar itching, embarrassing eruptions.

Its soothing healing action is brought about by qualities which cause it to sink deep into the pores and reach the very root of the disorder. It is absolutely harmless and does not smart or burn when applied to the most irritated surface.

To keep the skin healthy many people have adopted the daily use of Resinol Soap. Unsurpassed for toilet and bath. All druggists sell Resinol products.

Quick Relief From Coughs and Colds It Is Exceedingly Dangerous to Let Coughs and Colds Develop. Easy to Check Them.

For fifty-three years Porter's Pain King has stood in the front rank of home remedies for the relief of colds, coughs, croup, hoarseness and similar ailments.

Porter's Pain King is made of pure, wholesome ingredients, perfectly harmless and amazingly effective. By merit alone it holds an honored place in hundreds of thousands of American homes the year round.

Right now is a good time to read the circular wrapped around every bottle. Many families who have this good old-time liniment in the house suffer needlessly because they do not know all of its many uses. Porter's Pain King is more than a remedy for colds. It soothes aches and pains, soreness, swollen joints, tired muscles, lame back and rheumatic misery. It heals burns, scalds, cuts, chapped hands, frost-bitten feet. Why not use it today? The American Legion

AMERICAN LEGION FUND IS GROWING

As final preparations were being made in Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky to start active work on the American Legion Endowment fund, preliminary steps were taken to extend the movement to a second group consisting of 12 states, most of them in the South. The states in the second group are: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, West Virginia and Ohio.

At the same time it was announced that Judge Roger W. Bingham of Louisville, editor and publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has accepted the chairmanship of the executive committee to direct the endowment movement in Kentucky.

Stearns post, Stearns, Ky., a mining town with a population of 121, is the first Legion post in the entire country to "go over the top" in the movement. The goal for the post was set at $100. Twenty-four hours after the post learned the amount, a check for $100 was on its way to national headquarters at Indianapolis.

The first posts to send contributions for the fund to national headquarters were Eugene post, Eugene, Ore., and C. H. Berry post, Tamaqua, Penn. The Oregon post sent $75, and the other, $17.13. Adjutant Arthur S. Wolfe, of the Tamaqua post, said, "This represents the voluntary contributions from the members of this post, such contributions having been taken after each post meeting for the last few months."

Cardinal O'Connell of Boston was the first member of the national honorary committee for the fund to contribute to it. His contribution was also among the first received.

Lloyd W. Kendall, Legionnaire of Farmer City, Ill., sent a check for $5 for the fund. "I am very strong for this move," he said, "and only wish I was financially able to donate $50 or $500."

William B. Boggs, commander of the department of Panama, cabled that "the Canal Zone pledges $2,500 to the fund." The foreign departments of the Legion were given no quotas but asked to give what they could. Panama was the first to respond.

Hon. John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, cabled from Paris that he is glad to serve as a member of the national honorary committee for the fund. Other recent acceptances on the committee are: Mrs. Mary Lord Harrison, New York city, wife of the late President Benjamin Harrison; William Green, Washington, president of the American Federation of Labor; Otto H. Kahn, New York banker; Will H. Hays, New York city, president of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors, Inc.; John R. Quinn, Los Angeles, past national commander of the American Legion; Bishop Charles H. Brent, Buffalo, chief of the chaplain service in the A. E. F.; Booth Tarkington, Indianapolis, author; V. M. Johnson, Rockford, Ill., president of Kiwanis International; James E. Chandler, Imperial potentate of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine; Charles Dana Gibson, New York city, artist; Gen. James A. Thomas, Dublin, Ga., commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans; Gen. John H. Dunn, Boston, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; John Drew, New York city, actor.

Predict Veterans Will Seek State Home Care

"In a few years," predict American Legion officials of Lincoln, Neb., "World war veterans will ask admission in great numbers to state homes, and states throughout the country will have to make proper provision for them." The government has adequate facilities to care for indigent and helpless veterans at present, say the Legionnaires, but later the state will have to supplement government aid.

This prediction was made in the face of a survey revealing that there are fewer soldiers in state homes in Nebraska now than there were in 1921. Deaths among the veterans of the Civil war account for the decrease, the Legionnaires point out. Within a few years World war veterans will be clamoring to enter the state homes, they maintain.

Massachusetts Ahead

At Pittsfield, Mass., recently, for the first time since the inception of the American Legion in Massachusetts, it went into state convention with black ink figures, instead of red ink, on the balance sheet, according to a statement of Treasurer E. W. Gross. Massachusetts department of the Legion was $10,000 in debt in January, 1923; as against the $279.50 to the good at this time.

Cup for Minnesota Post

Gerald V. Barron of Cloquet, Minn., past department commander of the American Legion, announces he will donate a cup to the Legion post in the Department of Minnesota having the best and most consistent record for the past five years. The trophy will be given at the next department convention.

PLAY FROCKS FOR KIDDIES; TRIM KNITTED TOPCOATS

SPRING sewing for children is well under way by this time, and the sooner it is finished the better. It is a matter to dispose of early in the year when all the new wash fabrics come in, together with new frocks for little folks, and bring a cheerful springtime atmosphere into the shops with them. All the old-time and dependable favorites made their appearance in January, as usual, along with some novelties in wash fabrics and many ready-tailored looking are these coats of classic simplicity, carrying style conviction in their every detail. The modish straightlined silhouette, to which every woman aspires this season, is interpreted to perfection in these new knitted coats. As to colorings, the combinations are adorable, especially the plaited effects ranging from blendings to boldest contrasts. Granted that these knitted coats are about as handsome in appearance as made dresses, from which whatever is unusual in styles may be gathered.

But in styles there is nothing radically new and different except in ways of decorating everyday dresses. This spring's dresses and aprons—or apron-dresses—are just one picture-book story after another. By means of cotton floss and an embroidery needle the seamstress becomes an artist and proceeds to make sketches of all things treasured in the hearts of little folks. Little children at play, little familiar animals, Mother Goose illustrations, the little old red schoolhouse down by the lane—and the lane—are all sketched in outline stitch on the dresses of gingham, chambray, linen and cotton cloths that Little Miss wears every day.

Unbleached domestic is as good a medium as anyone could want for apron-dresses to be slipped on over other frocks. One of these is shown in the picture. It is bound with flat one could hope for a spring wrap to be. Appearance, however, tells only half the story of the likableness of the knitted coat, such as stylists advocate for the coming season. It is in the wearing thereof that knitted underwear always makes eloquent appeal. To none other than to things knitted belongs that beguiling comfort which the caressing, soothing touch of softest woolen yarns always imparts. From this standpoint of joy-giving comfort the new knitted coats are no exception. In fact, one of their chief allurements is the exquisite refinement of the yarns employed in their making.

A smart three-quarter length knitted coat which follows fashion's decree for plaids is shown in the accompanying picture. It is knitted of white mohair patterned with horizon blue. Patriotic style and superior fineness are apparent at a glance in this model.

Red, that favored of all colors, at present is used in several shades.

Spick and Span and Tailored Looking.

white braid or tape, slips on over the head and has a real pocket, holding a handkerchief, which ought to be enough to make its wearer's joy complete. But its appeal lies more in the sketch of "Simple Simon" industriously fishing and a flight of little birds than in merely useful attributes like pockets. The sketch is made in gayly colored floss—brown, red, green, blue.

Of engaging trimness are the knitted topcoats which are making their appearance in the vanguard of spring fashions. Spick-and-span and plaided on a white background, for a very interesting knitted topcoat displayed at a recent style show. There was an intermingling of silk with the wool in this strikingly handsome garment.

Most of the knitted models in the latest showings feature the tailored effects. Even when the body of the coat is developed in an allover patterned effect, the cuffs and collars are preferably plain.

BOY WHO "FRAMED" HIMSELF GETS 25 YEARS IN PRISON

Desire to Appear Tough Causes Youth to Confess Many Crimes.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Ray M. Snoderly, sixteen, of Wichita, Kan., arrested in Council Bluffs, was so anxious to appear "tough" that he confessed to a dozen or more crimes and is now serving 25 years in the Iowa penitentiary without, so far as the police can now discover, ever having committed a single crime. The Council Bluffs courts are unable to release him and his case is to be brought to the attention of the governor with the request that the boy be pardoned.

Snoderly was a boy tramp. For two years he has been tramping around the country, doing odd jobs. But he will tramp no more unless Iowa's governor gives him a pardon.

"I wanted to be known as the world's toughest boy," he confessed, just before he started for the state prison. "I got a great 'kick' out of the story I told. But the kick is all gone now, I'm in for it."

Snoderly's innocence is not based on his own denial of his stories, but on the investigations made by the police since his sentence.

Admits He's Bad Egg.

Snoderly came into the Council Bluffs police station one cold night and asked for lodging. After he had been in the place an hour or so he told the chief of police he was a "bad egg" but that he had repented and wanted to "confess" and get it off his conscience. The police wanted to know all about it, and Snoderly unfolded a story of crimes in all parts of the country, including hold-ups, robberies, bootlegging, thieving, shooting, burglaries, and a lot of other things.

"Did you have anything to do with the holding up and shooting in Cafe No. 15?" the police asked.

"Yes, I'm the guy that did the shooting," replied Snoderly.

"That was the first I ever heard of Cafe No. 15," Snoderly told, as he was leaving for prison. "The police would ask me if such and such was the case and I would tell them. All my answers were suggested to me by the questions. If I made a mistake, a suggestion would correct me. I made myself out as tough as I could."

But all that came out afterward. At the time Snoderly signed a confession to the Cafe No. 15 robbery, went to court the next day, swore to the crime and to others and received a sentence of 25 years.

Tells of His Gang.

Investigation shows Snoderly was in Kansas City the day of the Cafe No. 15 robbery and painted a flagpole on one of the tall buildings in that city that day.

"My underworld name is 'Scarfinder Ted,'" Snoderly told the Council Bluffs police when making his "confession." "I belong to a gang of 125 gunmen, with Chicago as headquarters. We have a place over there on the lake front with an underground entrance so we can get away if the police surround the place. We take orders from 'Diamond Dick,' our chief."

"Diamond Dick" carries two pearl handled revolvers—one .38 and one .45 caliber, besides a blackjack. He is a smooth talker, coarse voice, large nose, somewhat flat; scar circles right eye, notch slot in left ear.

Descriptions, down to the smallest detail were then given to "Kansas City Hutch," "Pick-'Em-Up Red," "Two-Trigger Slim," "Shorty," "Carlson," and a lot of others.

"There isn't near the 'kick' in being tough that I thought there was," said Snoderly.

The variety of labor saving hand tools is large and they are inexpensive. Now is the time to look over the equipment of tools on hand and repair them if necessary. In selecting new tools particular soil conditions should be kept in mind, as all tools will not work under all conditions. If your garden is one-fifth of an acre or larger in size you should have a hand wheel hoe.

OVER THE COUNTY

State game officials announced recently that the new game preserve in Rush Twp. will be stocked with deer and birds as soon as the weather permits.

The Zion general store, which had been conducted for the past 33 years by the late B. A. Noll, was purchased from the heirs recently by Frank Clevens, well-known in Nittany valley.

Three animals, believed to be timber wolves, were chased into the mountains near Gray's church, on Buffalo Run, recently by farmers. Several shots were fired at them, but the animals escaped.

One indication of coming prosperity, is the announcement from Millheim that the Millheim Knitting Mills, Inc., are turning out 1,000 dozen pairs of hose daily, and are "booked solid" for their entire product for the next 6 months.

The Clayton Poorman home at Marsh Creek was totally destroyed by fire last week, entailing a loss of approximately $4,000. The fire was discovered by one of the children and is thought to have originated from an over-heated stove. No insurance was carried.

Miss Elizabeth Livingston, teacher of the Yarnell school, recently was compelled to ride horseback to school several days due to the heavy drifts in that section. It was the young lady's first attempt as an equestrienne and she admitted that she was somewhat frightened.

L. L. Smith, of Centre Hall, and William Shoop, of Bellefonte, returned last week from a month's sojourn in Florida. On the return trip Mr. Shoop became seriously ill and had to be taken from the train at Charleston, S. C., where he spent 2 days in a hospital before resuming the journey. He is now confined to his parents' home at Centre Hall.

Beech Creek Flood.

The worst flood in years overran the Beech Creek valley last week when the ice went out. The jams started piling up as far up the creek as Kato, and from there down a succession of jams caused the stream to leave its channel and overflow the lowlands along its course. The worst damage was done at the Charles Rupert farm where a huge jam broke up, scattering blocks of ice all over the surrounding countryside. Three young pigs were drowned on the Rupert farm, and a number of fences and young fruit trees were torn out. The road between Blanchard and Beech Creek was covered by a foot of water from midnight to noon on Thursday. In many places along the streams the ice cakes were piled to a height of 6 to 8 feet.

BIG RACES JUNE 13

Altoona Speedway Arranging for Championship Classic.

Spring is here even though the proverbial first robin hasn't yet appeared. Although 4 months must pass before the first of the season's 2 great events, squads of workmen have already started preparing the famous Altoona speedway for the sensational racing classics of 1925.

When Fred J. Wagner, International known starter of world's championship classics, lines up the cars on June 13 he will face the greatest roster of racing pilots ever entered in one event. In addition to the stellar drivers of the American continent, headed by Tommy Milton, Ralph DePalma, Earl Cooper, Benjie Hill and others, the management is now arranging with European representatives for the appearance of the most noted of French, Italian, German and English cars and drivers.

With the settlement of the reparations question, the German racing car manufacturers can ship their mounts to this country without the risk of seizure that withheld them in recent years. None dared the national barriers last season because 4 machines, valued at more than $100,000, were virtually interned here in 1923 when they couldn't pass back through the French occupation zones without heavy risks.

Victims of Recent Ham Fraud.

Selling packinghouse cured shoulders and hams as country cured hams at a price in excess of prevailing values is the latest misrepresentation and fraud designed for the unsuspecting housewives. The practice was recently unearthed by the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. A group of men operating under the guise of farmers with headquarters in Harrisburg have been selling "country hams" to housewives in a door-to-door canvass in different parts of the State. These defrauders were found to be selling shoulders instead of hams to housewives who do not know the difference between packinghouse cured shoulders and country hams. The ham salesmen are shrewd so that in case the housewife shows some knowledge of the difference between ham and shoulders, the ham is sold to her. Otherwise she will be sold the shoulder at a fancy ham price. Consumers who do not desire to be defrauded in this manner are warned by State officials to be on their guard when solicited by anyone offering hams for sale. Both the shoulders and the hams sold by the above defrauders can be distinguished from country cured hams by the fact that they carry government inspection stamps which country cured hams do not carry.

Spring Mills Creamery Sold.

The Pennsylvania Milk Co. of Spring Mills has been sold to the Breyer Ice Cream Co., of Philadelphia and New York. Possession was taken on Monday. The new owners of the plant will ship the milk directly to Philadelphia for distribution to the family trade and manufacture of ice cream. The Breyer company is said to be one of the largest manufacturers of ice cream in the world.

STARTING WITH A CLEAN SLATE

By SELINA HIGGINS

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"A CLEAN slate, Mr. Boyden," proclaimed Warren Bliss with a great sigh of satisfaction and relief. "I begin life all over again."

"You are a fool!" growled Samuel Boyden.

"I hope Cleora does not share in the same sentiment," observed Bliss, hopefully.

"She will when she knows the details," stormed Boyden. "Why, what sense or reason was there in your shouldering the Evans claims. That $15,000 was charged as a debt due the company, not you. It's a shame, an outrage! That was your individual money, and it would have set you and Cleora up at housekeeping. It would have furnished capital to start up again, and now—"

Mr. Boyden choked up at a memory of the fearful blunder Bliss had committed in being honest and proving the true man.

"I did just what was right," replied Bliss very quietly, but with implacable conviction. "When I sold my best friend, Ross Evans, $15,000 worth of material to build the dam at Moreton, I knew it was a risk. I could not consent to charge the company for a line of credit that might not be met. I guaranteed the bill. The dam was a failure. The money is gone. I paid it. That ends it—paid dollar for dollar, and I'm glad I could do it!"

"Humbly!" snorted old Boyden.

"Sentiment!" spoke up a new voice, and Warren Bliss stood fairly electrified as the woman to whom he was engaged appeared at the door of the room. The mask was down now. It was the cruel contempt in that dark siren face that told Bliss that he had escaped a precipice.

"You will understand, I think," she said frigidly, extending their engagement ring. "Since you think more of others in divesting yourself of your means than of me, you show your shallow regard."

"Cleora! Cleora!" cried Bliss poignantly, hurt to the soul, but she turned from him. There was no sympathy in the malignant face of John Boyden. The young man sighed. Then with a bow he silently left the house.

It seemed as if amid that terrible blow to his pride, his hopes, his loyalty, he was crushed, blinded, stunned. He was sick at heart. He could not yet face the world. Bliss turned at the doorway and struck out, not for the public street, but to reach the quiet, shady lane at the side of the garden reach. He wished to be alone, to think, to recover from the rude shock that had revealed Cleora Boyden in her true colors.

A light form had crossed the garden a moment previous, but he was too absorbed to note its presence. Out in the deserted lane he chose a grassy spot beside the hedge and buried his face in his hands in painful thought.

In a single day he had seen the business of years go by the board. There had been the consolation, however, that the assets had paid off every dollar of debt—that is, with his own private inherited fortune thrown in. He believed in Cleora. He had anticipated that, like a true woman, she would sympathize with him in his affliction, comfort and encourage him. How cruelly was he disappointed!

Suddenly Bliss lifted his head in sharp surprise. Some one was sobbing on the other side of the hedge. Then came the words:

"And oh, Midget! How cold and cruel they were! After all his love for Cleora and his noble loyalty to his friend! They have thrown him out on the cold world just as Uncle John said I would have to go. Oh, cruel! cruel! And Mr. Bliss was so kind to us!"

Peering through the hedge Bliss made out a young girl caressing a pet kitten and confiding to the purring animal her heart's grief. He knew Dorothy Lane well—a poor relative of the haughty Cleora. He had pitied her life of drudgery, and once when Miss Boyden was away had thoughtfully strolled up to the place with a box of caramels for Dorothy and a pretty gew ribbon for Midget's snowy neck. It had been a pleasant hour and he had not forgotten. Now vast sorrow and pity oppressed him as he realized that the hard-hearted selfishness of the Boydens was to be wreaked on this helpless, innocent orphan.

grand man you are, and I want to work for you and help you. Oh, we need so little. Midget and I, and an old lady in the village will give us a free home for getting the meals and keeping the house in order. I've thought it all out. Daytime I'll come here and be your clerk. You can teach me how to sell goods and keep your books, and I'll work like every thing. Oh, please, don't say no!"

A humid blur came before the eyes of Bliss at an appreciation of the impetuous, unselfish devotion of this poor little wayfarer. He saw that he would fairly break her heart if he denied her.

It was wonderful how quickly Dorothy learned the business way. She was bright, joyous company all day long. Then, too, the business began to grow. At the end of six months she was proudly earning a salary. She wore neat-fitting clothes. She was "Miss Lane" now.

One afternoon, just as Dorothy left the store for the day, Bliss stood gazing after her rapt. Something new, something love-inspiring stirred within his soul.

"Hello!" uttered a sudden, jolly voice, and a glad hand slapped Bliss heartily on the shoulder.

"Why, Ross Evans!" exclaimed Bliss in surprise.

"That's who. Been East—among the big promoters. Your carrying that bill gave me a breathing spell. New company formed to carry on the project, your $15,000 in my pocket with interest, and—you noble fellow! You are one in a thousand. But the pretty little maid?"

"She has been my helper, my guide, my truest friend," pronounced Bliss fervently. "She has been my refuge, my inspiration through all my dark moments, but, tomorrow—"

"Thinking of something, aren't you?" railed the quick-thinking Evans.

"I am—and it is this: Dorothy shall become my wife—if she will have me."

And Miss Cleora Boyden returned wearied from a fruitless quest for a husband at the seashore, found "that beggarly brat" and Warren Bliss settled down happily in a beautiful home, with the money and the growing business to maintain it.

Berlin's War on Crime

The post-war wave of crime has been as much a problem in German as American cities. To combat it in Berlin a special telephone device has been put in use. Whenever anyone is in need of the police he calls central, says "emergency call," and gives his address. A motorcycle or auto patrol starts at once. The newest development involves the use of a phonograph with a record of the police-call phrase. This is connected electrically to doors and windows, so that if a marauder forces an entrance, an arrangement of levers takes down the receiver. The phonograph, simultaneously started, repeats the call into the telephone, and keeps repeating it until stopped by the operator at central.

Good Old Books Stay

The old stand-bys in the world of literature—books by Jane Austen, George Eliot, Thackeray, Dickens and William James—rarely are allowed to rest for long on the shelves of the New York public library, according to the head of the circulating department.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white squares up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Sandpaper Lithographs

A new method of lithographing which will be of special interest to amateur artists and school children has been invented by Norman Jacobson of Coketown, Wyo., now studying art in Paris. In his method, sandpaper replaces the expensive stones hitherto necessary. Some brilliant effects can even be obtained by using as a "printing press" the family wash wringer.

The idea of sandpaper lithographs came accidentally when the young American etcher happened to run an ink roller over a piece of sandpaper. He noticed that the sandpaper would not "take" ink. He found that if he drew a design on it with wax crayons or a pointed piece of soap and then inked the sandpaper the design was printed not unlike that from a regular lithographing stone. A group of American art students are now turning out work by the new method.

Easy to Grow Edelweiss

Thrilling tales are told of the lure of the rare edelweiss. That it can be easily cultivated, however, has been proved by its frequent appearance in American and European gardens, according to the Detroit News. The plant grows about six inches high. Almost any soil, not too rich and fully exposed to the sun, will produce edelweiss plants, for the woolly covering enables them to hold moisture and endure exposure. The word is from the German and means "noble white."

The edelweiss is the national floral emblem of Switzerland. It plays an important part in the legend and poetry of that nation and, due to its rarity, laws protect it here. Appearing in exposed places, high in the Alps of Switzerland, Tyrol, Carinthia, Austria and Serbia, its fame is due chiefly to the difficulty of obtaining it.

Tour of Inspection

"Yes, sir," declared a stout man in the "smoker," "now that I have wealth and leisure I propose to check up on the song writers."

"As to how?"

"First, I'll count the sycamores along the Wabash and then I'll inspect those brains of Maxwellton."

BIBLES

"The reverence of Jehovah is the beginning of wisdom."

Proverbs 1:7.

The Bible is not a book of limited axioms, circumscribed activities and laws of arbitrary "Thou shalt nots." The Bible points man to the great things that God designed should occupy his life. An understanding of the Bible broadens one's views as does no other book.

A HOME WITHOUT CHILDREN Lacks the Greatest Joys of Life

Many Wives are Childless Because of Ill Health. Read
How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Helped Mrs. Benedict

MRS. MARY R. BENEDICT
313 PAYSON STREET, KEWANEE, ILLINOIS
Kewanee, Illinois. — "When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sensitive Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my teens until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 313 Payson Street, Kewanee, Ill.

Has a Beautiful Baby Girl Now

Bridport, Vermont. — "In the first place I wanted a baby, but none seemed to come to me. I just love children and my husband is away all day, so I was not happy at all. A doctor told me I could not have a baby until I went to a hospital. But my sisters said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you will be O.K.' I was nervous, had organic weakness, with backache, headache, and no strength. I had been in bed nearly a week when I began taking the Vegetable Compound. It was all that ever helped me and I just wish you could see my beautiful baby girl. I am fine now, and so is she. I am still taking the medicine as it keeps me well. You may be sure I am recommending the Vegetable Compound and always will."—Mrs. A. W. Howe, Bridport, Vermont.

Post Famed in U. S. History

Governors Island Intimately Associated With Record of Men and Events.

New York.—When Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall assumed command of the Second corps area recently, succeeding Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, and set up his headquarters at Governors Island he took over one of the most historic posts in the United States, one that has associated with it the names of America's famous generals, past and present.

Generals Hancock, Schofield, Howard, Miles, Merritt, Chaffee, Corbin, Grant, Wood, Bliss and Barry, all of whom have made history in this country, have at one time or another lived in the old colonial house on Governors Island that is the home of the commanding general of the Department of the East. Though Governors Island has long since outlived its usefulness as a part of the defenses of New York city, two important events have occurred within recent years that emphasize its value.

The first blow struck by American troops when the United States entered the World war was launched from Governors Island when at 3:30 a. m. on Good Friday, April 6, 1917, less than half an hour after congress declared that a state of war existed between the United States and the Imperial German government, a battalion of the One Hundred and Twenty-second Infantry embarked on boats of the revenue service and seized all the German ships and their crews in the harbor.

The other event in which troops from Governors Island participated was one of vital interest to New York city, and, in fact, to the whole country. The Wall street explosion occurred about noon on September 10, 1920, and ten minutes later the commanding general at Governors Island received a telephone message at his headquarters from the assistant secretary of the treasury asking for troops to protect government property at the sub-treasury and other places.

Troops Soon Appeared.

In 20 minutes' time the troops were under arms and they arrived at the sub-treasury in a little over half an hour from the time the call for help was sent in. The effect of the soldiers upon the enormous throng that had been attracted to the financial district by the explosion was of vital importance, and many prominent bankers and financiers afterward said that scenes of violence and panic were averted thereby.

From the dim past of Indian occupation down through the Dutch period of Van Twiller and Peter Stuyvesant and the days of the English governors, right up to the present time, Governors Island has had an unbroken history of official government occupation.

The Indian name for Governors Island was "Pagganuck," referring to the abundance of nut trees with which it was clothed. The Dutch translated it to "Nuttin" and on June 16, 1637, the director and council of New Netherlands, residing on the Island of Manhattan, in the Fort Amsterdam—Bowling Green—published the order according to which two Indians of the Island of Pagganuck did "transport, cede, give over and convey to the behoof of Wouter Van Twiller, director of New Netherlands, this island in consideration of certain 'parcels of goods.'"

In 1698 the island was set aside by the assembly as part of the "Denizen of His Majesty's Fort at New York for the benefit of His Majesty's Governors" and so it became known as Governors Island. The English held Governors Island until the evacuation in 1783, and during the period the various governors held the island as a perquisite of office.

The records show that Sir William Pepperell's regiment was on the island in 1755, and later the Twenty-second, Forty-fourth and the Royal American regiments saw service there. The last named regiment afterward became and is still known as the King's Royal Rifle corps, of which King George V of England is the honorary colonel. In January, 1921, Field Marshal Lord Grenfell, colonel in chief of the King's Royal Rifles or the K. R. R. as they are commonly known, presented in the names of the officers and men of the regiment, the ancient regimental colors of the regiment. The flag was installed with imposing ceremonies in the post chapel of St. Cornelius the Centurion, where it now hangs on the right of the line of historic American battle flags.

A Memento of Joint Action.

In his letter of presentation Lord Grenfell described the battle flag as "a memento of the fact that the Royal American regiment and the regiments of New York fought shoulder to shoulder not only during the many years of warfare which ended in the conquest of New France and the subjection of Indian tribes bordering on the Great Lakes, but also, after the lapse of a century and a half, against a common enemy in a more terrible European conflict."

With the evacuation of the British forces in 1783 the American army took possession of the island and elaborated the defenses until the existing Fort Jay was finished in 1801. To this day it remains a fine example of medieval fortification, with moat, saltport, drawbridge and postern gate, mounted with 100 guns. The name was changed to Fort Columbus and the fort was entirely completed in its present form

HEN IS 23 YEARS OLD

The oldest hen in the world is owned by Miss Emma Larson of Galva, Ill. This ancient fowl is in her twenty-third year, and was raised from an egg by the owner, who is thus able to furnish absolute proof of the age of this long-lived bird. The normal life of a chicken is 12 years. "Little Old Lady," as her owner, calls her, is almost blind but has a good appetite and bids fair to live a year or two longer.

five years afterward. The name Fort Jay was restored by direction of Secretary of War Elihu Root on January 20, 1904. Many old New Yorkers, however, still recall and use the name Fort Columbus, which it bore for nearly a century.

Part of Governors Island was ceded to the United States by the legislature of New York state on February 15, 1800. The area ceded was 69.5 acres. This was found inadequate for the military needs of the department headquarters and the military garrison, and so in 1880 a further cession of 103 acres was made by the legislature.

Razed Structures Expose Ancient London Houses

London.—So many buildings are being torn down in London nowadays to make way for modern structures that various sections of the old city are taking on the bustling appearance of a new and rapidly growing American town. Also, the demolitions often give passersby unexpected glimpses of ancient houses hitherto hidden from view.

One gets occasional glimpses of famous old landmarks that never before, at least in living memory, have been fully exposed to public view. One of these is the Old Savoy chapel, which, with the trees in its little churchyard, can now be seen from the top of a bus in the Strand.

Another is in Bishopsgate, where quaint little St. Ethelburga, one of the oldest and smallest churches in London, fronted with two ancient and tiny shops, is now suddenly revealed by the pulling down of buildings at its side. It was here that Henry Hudson and his companions came before they sailed from the Thames on their last voyage to the frozen north.

7,026 Characters on Japanese Typewriter

Seattle, Wash.—Japanese typewriters here have only one key, but print 7,026 characters. The operator often writes sixty words a minute, which is doubly faster than is possible when printing the characters by hand. The machine prints from the bottom of the page to the top and from the right-hand side to the left.

In addition to the Japanese characters the quaint typewriter has the English alphabet tucked away in a corner. The typing characters are single bits of steel adjusted in a movable tray so as to be pushed into contact with a ribbon above the paper placed in readiness for the writing.

Use Catnip in Canada to Aid Fight on Cougars made by the finger nails of the murderer. Next he obtained a specimen of dirt from beneath the suspect's finger nails.

When this dirt speck was photographed under the microscope, exceedingly minute bits of torn flesh were disclosed. Also, there were blood corpuscles. Most important of all, though, there were small crystals, which Doctor Locard established as those of the face powder habitually used by the murdered girl.

In another case a counterfeit was convicted when microscopic photographs of a bit of wax from his ear disclosed telltale streaks of printer's ink, particles of dust from a lithographic stone and traces of the characteristic crystals of a chemical used by engravers.

Various chemicals for the extermination of roaches and bugs are tested and a thorough study of the fight against cancer and typhoid was made.

CRIMES ARE SOLVED BY USE OF THE SUPER-MICROSCOPE

French Police Scientist Detects Murder Clues in Dust Left in Clothing.

New York.—Centuries ago it was considered good police practice to beat a prisoner until he confessed. In France today the same result is achieved by beating his clothing.

In Paris recently a man was found dead in a deserted spot. He had been killed by a blow on the head, and all about the place where the body was discovered were evidences of a terrific struggle. A few days after the body was found the police arrested a man who, they ascertained, was an enemy of the dead man. The prisoner stoutly denied his guilt, and the police were unable to shake his story.

Then, according to the Popular Science Monthly, Dr. Edmond Locard, director of the police technical laboratory at Lyon, took the suspect's coat, placed it in a sack and beat it thoroughly. This he did also with the coat of the dead man. Then he photographed the dust he had collected with a microscopic camera of his invention, which magnified 225 diameters, or more than 50,000 times. The photographs showed that the two sample contained wood fibers and characteristic particles of soil that corresponded exactly with specimens of dust obtained from the place where the murder was committed. Introduced in court, these photographs went a long way toward convicting the prisoner.

An even more dramatic use of the microscopic camera sent to the guillotine a young Lyon bank clerk for the murder of his sweetheart, who had been found strangled in her apartment. Doctor Locard examined the body of the murdered girl and discovered several small scratches on her neck, relieve the dry, parched condition of the skin which comes with exposure to the weather. The cold cream is a cleansing and healing cream and leaves the skin soft. To do the most good it should be applied at night. On dry skins it may be used as a foundation for powder. Marcelle Vanishing Cream is the better cream for daytime use and as a foundation for face powder, as it is greaseless and cannot reappear through the powder in a shine. The creams are on sale in both tubes and jars.

Bonanza

"Bonanza" is a Spanish word meaning "fair weather" or a "favoring wind." The miners of Comstock lode, a gold and silver mine in Nevada, which yielded 340 millions worth of ore in 30 years, first used the word to signify an abundance of precious metal or rich ore. The word is now also used to signify any good fortune or successful enterprise.

Back Bad Since the Grip?

Has a cold or grip sapped your strength? Do you suffer constant backache, feel nervous and depressed? Then look to your kidneys! Many cases of kidney trouble are the result of infectious disease. The kidneys often break down under the strain of filtering disease-created poisons from the blood. That's why a cold or grip often leaves backache, headaches, dizzy spells and irregular kidney action. Help your weakened kidneys with DOAN'S PILLS. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A Pennsylvania Case

Mrs. Fred Kemperman, 630 Franklin Ave., Ellwood City, Pa., says: "I had sharp pains across the center of my back; if I stooped or made a quick move, the pains became more intense. My kidneys acted irregularly; sometimes acting too frequently and then again, sluggish and inactive. I was also nervous and irritable. After using two boxes of Doan's Pills, I was cured."

Asphalt Supply Is Inexhaustible

Interesting Facts About "Devil's Pool" in Trinidad.

Washington, D. C.—"The pavements of city streets cry to the cloop of horses' hoofs and the whir of automobile tires, 'Trinidad,' in tribute to the island's asphalt deposits. Radio and telephone wires reverberate the refrain. Even the walls of houses shut out these sounds, as well as the cold, with the world-famous product of this emerald island of the southern Caribbean," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The most southerly island of the West Indies and the largest of the British islands in the Caribbean with the exception of Jamaica, lying just a few hundred feet from the Venezuela coast, Trinidad ships yearly to the United States more asphalt and bitumen than all the other countries of the world combined. Our 80,000-ton importation from Trinidad, however, is only about one-fourth of the quantity used in the United States. Much of our road material is a by-product of the petroleum and coal tar industries.

Supply Seems Inexhaustible.

"When Sir Walter Raleigh stopped on the shores of Trinidad to 'pay' his vessels with pitch from the famous 'lake,' he declared that there was enough of the substance for all the vessels of the world for centuries to come, and even the demand which modern civilization has put upon the supply has scarcely changed the truth of his statement.

"About a mile from the shore, near La Brea, the peculiar phenomenon, which has been variously termed an 'inferno,' a 'Stygian pool,' and 'the fountain of Styx,' is located. Had Dante known of its existence, it probably would have served to stimulate his imagination to still more fantastic flights. However, the lake about which so many interesting stories have been told does not deserve its reputation. A man who contemplated suicide in its black depths would die of starvation before the ooze dragged him in above his knees.

"The situation produced by walking over its surface is much like that of treading upon some great beast whose flesh gives beneath the feet—it is soft, blood-warm, and the wrinkles over its surface in the blinding light of the sun seem to rise and fall with his breathing and the water which gathers in the furrows suggests that the animal is perspiring.

"It is said that the area of the pitch-bearing lake is 110 acres and no one knows how deep it is. There is an almost uncanny feature connected with the removal of the asphalt from the area. Rills and sleepers have been built into the lake and each day the laborers dig up chunks of the pitch, which break off with dry, blue-flintlike fractures, and throw them into a car which runs on rails. Each day they make a trough along the sides of the track with their picks and when they return the next morning the trough is filled again level and solid for them to dig up—a furrow that is never finished.

Scars "Heal" by Night.

"Like the Burning Bush, the lake seems never to be consumed, and like the daughters of Danaus, who had to catch water in a sieve, the men never see the results of their labors. At night a great gully runs across the horizon, and at dawn the surface is level again.

"About every three days, however, the pitch swallows up the rails and the sleepers and they must be raised and readjusted on the surface.

"The subtle movements of this queer pool have produced some 'spooky' effects—Islands wander like lonely ghosts from shore to shore; sometimes a tree trunk sticks up out of the surface like the arm clothed in white samite which bore 'Excalibur,' points its warning finger, and again is drawn back into the Cimmerian depths.

"One writer has estimated that at least 10,000,000 tons of the mixture have been churned into asphalt by gas during the ages in Pitch lake, which is known as Devil's cauldron among the natives. About 4,000,000 tons have already been removed, and by 1920 the surface of the lake had fallen 15 feet below its former level. Once during its history the viscous fluid overflowed its banks and made its way to the sea near La Brea. Now the world's supply is shipped from Brighton, which fairly reeks of its stock in trade. Asphalt boulders stick up out of the sand along the shore like mysterious black sea worms, the piles of the piers are enked with pitch, the pavements are of the same material, and the black children of the island play with dolls whose little black faces and bodies are made of pitch.

Columbus Saw Island Peaks.

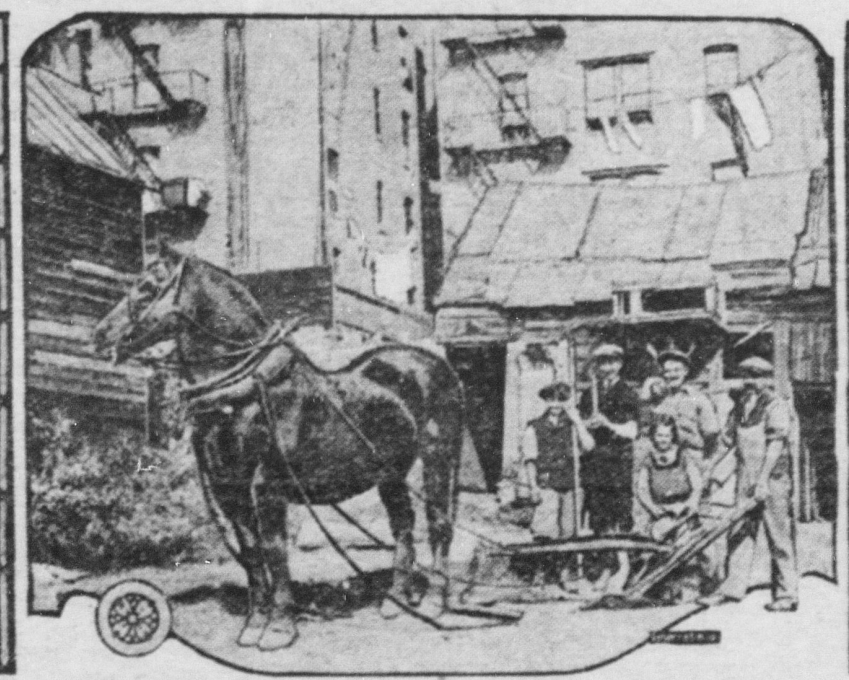

"The island is really a beautiful resort, its roads are excellent, and it is easy to reach from the Venezuela shore, its green trees towering on the sky line from far out at sea. On his third voyage Columbus saw its three mountain peaks, which gave it its name, rise out of the sea on July 31, 1498. At the foot of these hills clusters the group of buildings which forms the capital city. Port of Spain, a rather nondescript modern town which has grown up on the charred ruins of the old Spanish city.

"Though the island has been British since 1797, it is as polyglot as Zanzibar; negroes, mulattoes from high yellow to ginger, French Spaniards, Venezuelans, Chinamen, East Indians, Tamils, Americans and English loiter in its streets or hang over its balconies."

Have Poor Sight

New York.—Of approximately 12,000 children undergoing vision tests conducted by the United States public health service, 87 per cent were found to have defective vision, according to a statement by the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, which, analyzing the results, calls such conditions deplorable as constituting neglect of eyesight in the nation's schools.

Farming in New York City

Right in the Bronx, New York city, surrounded by a population of about one million, Frank Zavlotski of 964 Sherman avenue makes his living by real dirt farming as he has for the past 20 years. All about him are lofty apartment houses, but he refuses to move from his farm of four acres, which is a part of the Astor estate. He is shown above with his family and his horse.

Youth Hid Money While in a Daze

Messenger, Who Lost Memory, Faked Robbery.

Memphis.—Police, as the public prints have it, stay in a continual state of perplexity from pondering over the dark mysteries of crime, but members of the Memphis force have an extra wrinkle or two in their brows while puzzling out the strange case of Steve Ralph, twenty, bank messenger.

Ralph, a messenger for the East Memphis Bank and Trust company, was sent to another bank with checks and money. He failed to put in an appearance at his destination and a search was instituted. The messenger was found in an outlying portion of the city several hours later. He was suffering from exposure and incoherently told a tale of being drugged and robbed by three bandits in a motor car. An old man, a woman and a youth, according to Ralph, were the bandits.

Story Stood Up.

Police investigated and could find nothing to discredit the story told. An investigation into his habits and associates only confirmed the belief that he never drank, smoked, gambled or kept late hours. They accepted the statement.

A detective, in the rather far-fetched hope that the youth might see and recognize his abductors, had been riding the messenger through the city in a motor car, and, growing discouraged, was taking him to his home, when Ralph requested to be driven to a certain street intersection. The motor car stopped at a vacant lot not many blocks from the city's principal business section. Alighting from the machine Ralph, walking as a man in his sleep, according to the detective, went to a little patch of weeds and picked up a little bundle that had been in plain view of the hundreds who passed the place every day. In the bundle was the missing $10,000.

Has Dizzy Spell.

To police officials after the recovery of the securities the boy said he was seized with a sudden dizziness after leaving the bank and that his memory left him when he boarded a street car. He remembered nothing more, he said, until he found himself in the outskirts of the city some hours later, minus the money and securities entrusted to him by the bank. He frankly told the authorities he fabricated the story of the holdup because he could not remember what he did with the funds in his care.

"All at once what I did with the money came to me when I was riding in the motor car," he said. "I told the detective to drive me there for I was afraid they were gone, and when I found that they weren't, I told the truth."

Members of Ralph's family confirmed his story he was subject to seizures, resulting in fainting attacks and loss of memory. Bank officials and an insurance firm accepted the messenger's tale, and apparently there will be no prosecution.

Wilfred Winey, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Winey, of Tyrone, former pastor of the United Brethren church, had the misfortune to fracture his right wrist last Friday evening while cracking his father's car. The services of the young man will be greatly missed at the revival meetings now being conducted by his father, as he is an accomplished musician.

Bellefonte Presbyterians have called a congregational meeting for next Tuesday evening to consider the advisability of re-informing, or rather bracing, the side walls of the church building. Every now and then, running back over a period of many years, the side walls at the rear of the building have been reported to be spreading out at the top, with resultant danger of a portion of the roof falling in.

Several weeks ago building contractors again called attention to the importance of correcting the trouble. Some persons feel that the danger has been greatly magnified, while others look upon it as a most serious one and are urging that something be done without further delay. It is conceded by all that should the rear portion of the roof collapse the loss from damage to the large pipe organ would probably be much greater than would be the cost to brace the side walls with a steel arch.

Mrs. Caroline C. Furst was hostess at a tea on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Dennis Callahan spent the week-end among relatives in Altoona.

Representative Lester Sheffer, of Lewisburg, was a Bellefonte visitor on Tuesday.

Mrs. Catherine Bilger, of Pleasant Gap, celebrated her 94th birthday last Wednesday, by entertaining 54 guests. A huge cake was sent to her by her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Cole, of Dayton, O. The remarkable old lady is as spry as a person half her age, and is in full possession of all her faculties.

Attorney James C. Forst was a business visitor on Monday to Harrisburg, where he appeared before the Public Service Commission in support of a petition by W. J. Emerick, of Bellefonte, for a permit to operate a bus line between Harrisburg and Reading. Railroad and street car companies oppose the application, contending that such a line would ruin their passenger traffic business.

Manchester-Taylor.
William C. Manchester, of Detroit, Mich., a resident at the Bellefonte Academy, and Miss Louise Taylor, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Hugh S. Taylor, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. William C. Thompson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, using the beautiful ring ritual. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret, and the groom by Eugene Leonard, of Wilkes-Barre, a school-mate. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple departed on a short honeymoon trip to eastern cities. Upon their return they will reside in Bellefonte. The groom will be employed by the American Lime & Stone Co.

Shope-Breon.
John R. Shope, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shope, and Miss Blanche Rachel Breon, both of Bellefonte, were united in marriage on Tuesday of last week at the home of Rev. E. Crumbling, pastor of the Evangelical church of Lock Haven. The young couple will reside in Bellefonte for the present.

B. H. S. BASKETBALL

Local Cagemen Down Huntingdon 34 to 12.

The lateness of the game did not prevent a large crowd from seeing the High School play Huntingdon at the Army Saturday night. Although the game was forecasted as one of the hardest on the schedule, the score, 34-12, seemed to indicate an easy victory. Those who witnessed the game will say that it was hard-fought throughout, and that the superior passing of our boys accounted for the difference in the talents. This teamwork coupled with a defence that prevented any Huntingdon player from coming within 20 feet of the basket, was due primarily to the clean playing of the local lads. They played the ball every minute, making no effort to play the m.vn. We are very glad to see that our boys are being taught this kind of playing. Very often victory is held up as a little tin god to which everything else is subservient. Sportsmanship should be the first consideration of every game and when we see that our High School places true sportsmanship above scores and victories, we know they are on the right road.

On Saturday evening at the Army B. H. S. will play Lewisburg H. S. At present, Lewisburg is leading the league and making every effort to finish in first place. Earlier in the season they beat Bellefonte on the Lewisburg court by the score 29-24. Our boys are determined to annual that defeat and are practicing hard to be in shape. A great battle is expected. To give the business men a chance to be present the game will not be started until 9 o'clock.

The Girls' Basket Ball team handed the Central State Normal School girls a neat little valentine in the nature of a defeat upon their own floor, 27 to 22. The game was full of thrills and hard fought from start to finish. Bellefonte edged the first basket but their playing was ragged during the initial quarter so that Normal had a five point lead when that period was finished. Undismayed the Maroon uniforms soon made a come back and the ball ended with Bellefonte one point to the good. When the third period opened Lock Haven tied the score with a foul goal, but Gale's warriors were determined to win and secured a five point lead which was generally maintained throughout the rest of the game, with the final whistle leaving the score board at 27-22 in favor of Bellefonte.

B. H. S. Senior Play.

On Tuesday evening, February 24th, the Senior Class of the High School will present "Ming Toy." This play is an adaptation of "East is West." Great care has been taken in the selection of the characters, and, although only Seniors are in the cast, it promises to be one of the outstanding dramatic presentations of the season. Due to the fact that no suitable scenery could be found for the production, it was necessary to have it made to order.

On Friday evening the Seniors will give a dance in the High School building. It will be called the "La Belle Dance," and whatever balance remains will go toward the annual. The Penn Center Eight will furnish the music. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock.

"La Belle."

Work on the 1925 "La Belle" is going along unceasingly. The planning of the book has been completed and most of the material is finished. Practically all of the photographing is finished and in the hands of the engraver. When the Senior Class decided to publish a book that would far surpass any former effort of the High School, they realized that an early start and hard work were both necessary to its ultimate success. The start was made and hard work has been in evidence throughout. At present the advertising campaign is under way. Most of the merchants have been approached and all, with one or two exceptions, have taken space in the book. It is the aim of the advertising staff to enroll every merchant in Bellefonte so that all may have a part in the success of the new "La Belle."

HEALTH WEEK

To Be Observed in Bellefonte February 22-28.

The State authorities have designated February 22-28 as dental health week and have called upon all cities, towns and communities to observe the same. The object of the campaign is to give the public proper information on the importance of caring for the teeth and mouth. Ministers are requested to announce the activities of dental health week, and the co-operation of all schools, clubs, civic societies and associations is urged.

Bellefonte will observe the week and Dr. Hammer assistant to Dr. Kilpatrick, will have charge of all demonstrations and give talks on the importance of taking proper care of the teeth. Demonstrations will be from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. in all of the schools of Bellefonte.

Many people in Bellefonte, especially parents of school children, will recall the work of the dental hygienist in the public schools the past year or two when a large percentage of school children were found possessed of defective teeth. It has become an established fact that bad teeth makes for impaired health and the mouths of children, especially, should be carefully looked after. Because of this fact residents of Bellefonte are requested to take an interest in the observance of dental health week and attend the demonstrations.

Kiwanis Notes.

Mrs. John Madill, noted opera singer of Cleveland, O., was passing through Bellefonte on Tuesday and the enterprising committee secured her to sing for the Kiwanis at their weekly meeting. Mrs. Madill and her husband are enroute to New York, where they will take passage next week for Milan, Italy, where the former will fill a long operatic engagement. The general trend of the meeting was a patriotic one, in honor of Abraham Lincoln. The dining room of the Brockerhoff house was tastefully decorated in flags and a large portrait of the martyred president was hung in a prominent position. Addresses on patriotism were delivered by John B. Payne, W. Harrison Walker and J. K. Johnson, J. O. Staatsman, superintendent of Rockview, won the attendance prize.

Patriotic Memorial Services.

The Patriotic Order Sons of America, Washington Camp, No. 887, of Bellefonte, will observe Washington's birthday Sunday, Feb. 22, by attending church in a body. The address will be delivered by Rev. J. A. Mills, pastor of the United Brethren Church. All members are respectfully requested to meet at the P. O. S. of A. Hall at 10 o'clock and march in a body to the church. Come and bring a brother with you.

Fraternally yours,
HARRY A. ROSSMAN,
Rec. Sec.

Hit Dummy Policeman.

The sturdiness of the new flashing beacons recently installed on busy street corners in Bellefonte, was thoroughly demonstrated on Tuesday evening when the one at the corner of Spring and Bishop streets was struck by a car driven by P. J. Johnston. The car was a Chevrolet touring and just as Mr. Johnston was about to round the corner the steering wheel locked and the car drove head-on into the beacon, sliding it over to the curb in front of Dr. Brockerhoff's house, where it serenely continued to flash its warning red light. The bumper on the auto was badly damaged.

Prisoner Will Be Brought Here.

Contrary to expectations that Charles Wilson, escaped Rockview convict, wanted for murder in Denver, Colo., would be taken to that place to answer to the more serious crime, word was received here that a deputy warden of the Pittsburgh penitentiary was now in Louisiana, where Wilson was captured, and would probably arrive in Bellefonte with his prisoner some time in the near future. If Wilson is brought here he will appear before Judge Dale to answer to the crime of breaking and escaping from the Rockview penitentiary in 1917.

Woman's Club Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Club will be held on Monday evening, Feb. 23, at 7:30, in the High School building. Mrs. H. P. Winters, wife of Commander Winters, U. S. N., who has spent some time in the Philippine Islands, will give an informal talk on phases of life in Manila. No member will want to miss this treat. The discussion on immigration by the club members is postponed until the March meeting. The public is cordially invited to hear Mrs. Winters at 8:15.
